CAREFULLY PLANNED NAZI COUP NIPPED IN BUD IN VIENNA

Believed to be the world's first woman aeronautical engineer, Miss Isabel C. Ebel, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will shortly be graduated from New York University after years of intensive study of aviation. Already she has designed a plane that houses passengers, engines and baggage in wings and has no fuselage.

London, To-day.
Sussex received another check in their race for the County Cricket Championship, losing first innings points to Kent in their mid-week fixture, which concluded at Hove yesterday.
COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP
At Bourne, Hampshire secured first innings points from Somerset.
Hampshire: 338 (R. H. Moore 159, Jack Lee 7 for 141).
Somerset: 170 and 280 for 6 (J. C. White 94).
At Ilkeston, Derbyshire secured first innings points from Surrey.
Surrey: 275 and 176.
Derby: 293 (Smith 125) and 76 for 1.
At Clacton, Northamptonshire secured first innings point from Essex.
Northamptonshire: 451 (Timms 181, Matthews 100, Read 7 for 114).
Essex: 239 and 289 for 6 (Cutmore 135 not out).
At Maidstone, Kent secured first innings point from Sussex.
Sussex: 217 and 452 for 7 dec. (John Langridge 159, James Langridge 130).
Kent: 374 and 98 for 2.
At Manchester, Lancashire beat Gloucestershire by 103 runs.
Lancashire: 324 for 3 dec. and 86 for 0 dec.
Gloucestershire: 184 and 102 (Pollard 6 for 21).
At Worcester, Yorkshire beat Worcestershire by 10 wickets.
Worcester: 180 and 322 (Gibbons 113, Bowes 7 for 85).
Yorkshire: 416 (Hutton 196) and 88 for 0.

DEMPSTER SHOWS OLD FORM.

London, To-day.
At Edinburgh, the Australians held a definite advantage over the Scottish XI, with 7 wickets in hand, leading Scotland by 37 runs on the first innings.
L. O. Fleetwood-Smith, in deadly form, took 6 for 45, the only Scottish batsman to withstand the bowling being C. S. Dempster, the New Zealand Test batsman now playing in the Lancashire League. He scored 69.
Stan McCabe, at the close of play had scored 67 not out.
Scotland: 107 (C. S. Dempster 69, L. Fleetwood-Smith 6 for 45).
Australia: 144 for 3 (S. J. McCabe 67 not out).

100 REBELS DISGUISED AS HEIMWEHR POLICE SPIES FRUSTRATE SECOND PLOT UPRISING QUELLED

AFTER TWO DAYS OF FIERCE FIGHTING IN THE PROVINCES, THE NAZI UPRISING IN AUSTRIA HAS BEEN QUELLED. ONLY A FEW ISOLATED GROUPS OF FLEEING INSURGENTS REMAIN TO BE SUPPRESSED.
Considerable uneasiness, however, was revived in Vienna yesterday when it became known that a band of 100 Nazis, disguised as Heimwehr troops, had gained access to the inner district of the capital with the intention of effecting a second coup at the Chancellery.
Police spies gained knowledge of the plot and reinforcements were rushed to guard the Chancellery. The tension relaxed later in the day when it was reported that many arrests had been made.
The funeral of the dead Chancellor, Dr. Engelbert Dollfuss, will take place amid great ceremony this afternoon.
MEANWHILE, BEHIND THE SCENES, A NUMBER OF AUSTRIAN LEADERS, NOTABLY PRINCE STARHEMBERG, WHO IS SEEKING A FASCIST REGIME IN AUSTRIA, ARE STRUGGLING FOR THE REINS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

NAZI "PUTSCH" FRUSTRATED Another Desperate Bid To Control Government.

Vienna, To-day.
Heimwehr circles report that the Vienna police yesterday nipped in the bud another projected Nazi "putsch" at the Chancellery. Police spies reported that 100 Nazis, dressed in Heimwehr uniforms, entered the inner district of Vienna and intended, either yesterday afternoon or last night, to seize the Chancellery and Cabinet in another desperate effort to secure control of the Government.
It is reported that many arrests were made. The guards at the Chancellery were strengthened throughout the day.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.
BACK OF REVOLT BROKEN.
London, To-day.
Although the Austrian Government forces encountered resistance yesterday from bands of Nazis in Styria and Carinthia, the authorities declare that this merely represents the cleaning up process and that the back of the revolt has been broken.
Although many rumours are emanating from Vienna and other news centres, conditions throughout practically all of Austria are, apparently, again normal.—British Wireless Service.

BAND CONCERT POSTPONED

The Band Concert at the Kowloon Cricket Club, advertised for to-night, has been postponed until next Saturday.

700 NAZIS CAPTURED STARHEMBERG'S ATTITUDE THRONE CLAIMANT'S POLICY.

Vienna, To-day.
The fighting in Styria ended last night with an encounter at Elbeswald, where 700 Nazis were rounded up and surrendered. Only isolated bands of fleeing Nazis on the mountainous borders of Styria and Carinthia remain to be suppressed.
Prince Starhemberg, broadcasting, spoke almost in the tone of one who is a "claimant to the throne." He extolled the loyalty of himself, Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, and Major Emil Fey, to the Government and declared in the name of the dead Chancellor that there will be not the slightest compromise with the Nazis.
Otherwise, however, Austria is ready to forget the past and live on good terms with her neighbours, he said.—Reuter.

NAZI CONTROL OF COTTON MILLS

New Decree Governs Raw Materials.
MONTHLY ALLOWANCE
Berlin, To-day.
The Cotton Control Board has decreed that German spinning mills must not, in future, consume a monthly average of raw materials greater than 70 per cent. of the monthly average for the first three months of 1934.
Producers, distributors and consumers of flax, jute and hemp must advise the authorities of the amount of their stocks by August 8.—Reuter.

JAPAN'S FOREIGN TRADE UP STEADY INCREASE SINCE NEW YEAR.

Tokyo, To-day.
Despite obstructive measures abroad, Japan's foreign trade, as revealed in the latest statistics, is showing a steady development since the new year.
This is due largely to the change in the policy of catering to the principal markets to one of developing markets everywhere, notably in Central and South America, Africa and Egypt.
It is noteworthy that the export of cotton and textiles has created a new record.

Autumn Business Upturn May Be Delayed Due To Drought & Strikes

NEW YORK, To-day.
The Autumn business upturn in the United States may, possibly, appear later than indicated at the close of the second quarter, due to the drought crippling the farmers' purchasing power and to the strikes curtailing the money available for investment in industrial centres, declare Messrs. Dun and Bradstreet in their weekly report.
It is pointed out, however, that business has shown surprising tenacity throughout the midsum-

Deadly war chemicals were carried in the bottle pictured.

BRITAIN ON RIGHT PATH BRITAIN'S DAVIS CUP CHANCES PERRY AND AUSTIN FAVOURED.

London, To-day.
Great Britain, who won the Davis Cup from France last year, will defend it against the American challengers at Wimbledon this week-end.
To-day two singles will be played, as follows:—
H. W. Austin v. F. X. Shields, F. J. Perry v. S. B. Wood.
In the doubles on Monday Fred Perry and G. P. Hughes will represent Great Britain against George Lott and Lester Stoecken.
On Tuesday Perry will meet Frank Shields and Austin will encounter Sidney Wood.—British Wireless Service.
Following their victory over Australia in the Inter-Zone Final, which concluded on Wednesday, the Americans will enter the Challenge Round with confidence, although they will be up against a sterner proposition than in their last encounter.
To-day, Fred Perry, world's No. 1 ranking player should be able to defeat Sydney Wood without difficulty, while Bunny Austin has a good chance of taking the other singles match from Frank Shields.

AMERICA SHOULD WIN DOUBLES MATCH

London, To-day.
In reviewing the British trade situation in the House of Commons yesterday, the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Walter Runciman, said that in the first six months of this year exports totalled £190,000,000, which was an increase of £15,000,000 over the first six months of last year.
The most notable increases in exports referred to the woollen and worsted trades, which showed a £3,000,000 rise on the half year, and in the machinery and iron and steel industries, each of which showed a rise of £2,000,000.
These figures, he said, although not sensational, showed a tendency in the right direction.
COTTON SITUATION
No improvement had occurred in the cotton trade, which remained one of the most unfortunate of Britain's great industries. He was, however, hopeful that the schemes now being discussed in Lancashire might produce better results. The unemployment figures in the engineering trade had decreased by

TREASURY BILLS ISSUE. Maximum Allotted.

London, To-day.
A total of £79,430,000 was applied for yesterday in tenders for £35,000,000, worth of Treasury bills.
The amount allotted was £35,000,000, the average rate per cent. being 13/9.22d., as compared with 15/0.14d. last week.—British Wireless Service.
WEATHER FORECAST
Fair to showery, with moderate east winds, was the weather forecast issued by the Royal Observatory this morning.

DEADLOCK REACHED ANIMALS STARVING IN CHICAGO YARDS

MARTIAL LAW IN MINNEAPOLIS.
TRUCK DRIVERS REMAIN ADAMANT

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received July 28, 8.45 a.m.)
New York, To-day.
The strike situation at Minneapolis and Chicago remains tense, and in both cities a deadlock has been reached. Terrible scenes are being witnessed at the Chicago stock yards, where hundreds of animals are dying for want of food. The livestock market has been closed.
The truck-drivers remain adamant at Minneapolis, where the Governor of Minnesota, Mr. Floyd B. Olson, has declared martial law. The military dictatorship existing in the city was tightened further yesterday by the imposition of a modified press censorship, aimed principally at radical publications.
More reassuring reports, however, come from San Francisco, where the waterfront is humming with activity following the recent general strike which was declared in sympathy with the longshoremen and maritime workers.
"EMERGENCY OVER"
President Roosevelt's mediation board in the longshoremen's dispute has announced that the hiring hall question has been settled in a satisfactory manner. Details, however, are not given.
Meanwhile, the seamen have begun balloting to see who will represent them in the collective bargaining.

FURTHER INCREASE IN U.S. CAR-LOADINGS

New York, To-day.
A further increase in car-loadings in the United States is reported for the week ended yesterday, the total being 614,864 tons, as compared with 602,778 tons last week and 519,807 tons for the week before.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.
NEW HIGH RECORD RESERVE
New York, To-day.
From June 13 to July 18, the reserves of the member banks reached U.S.$4,000,000,000, which is a new high record and U.S.$1,850,000,000 above the legal requirements.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.
LOCAL RAINFALL
The local rainfall recorded at the Royal Observatory for the 24 hours ended 10.30 a.m. to-day was 0.83 inch, bringing the total since January 1 to 62.50 inches, as compared with a normal average of 51.28 inches.

Amusements

Cinema Notes

"ANN VICKERS"—KING'S THEATRE

"Ann Vickers", a poignant and powerful story of the modern mind-girl who is brilliant enough to win success after love and romance are denied her, is R.K.O.-Radio's epic production now showing at the King's Theatre.

Although many of the details of Sinclair Lewis' novel, from which the film version is taken, were left out, it gives Miss Irene Dunne one of the strongest and most dramatic roles of her career. The film concentrates on the sexual side of the book, and the romances of the girl.

Let down by her first lover she takes up social welfare and prison reform. Then she meets the Judge, Barney Dolphin (Walter Huston), a married man with whom she lives. When he is accused of fraud, and both their careers are ruined, she earns a living by writing, and awaits his release. Prison reform is touched upon in passing, and the scenes dealing with it are poignant and realistic.

Miss Dunne makes "Anne" lovable and human, while Walter Huston depicts his role with his usual artistry. Others in the cast who stand out are Edna May Oliver, Conrad Nagel, Bruce Cabot, Sam Hardy and Kitty Kelly.

"TO-NIGHT'S THE NIGHT"—QUEEN'S THEATRE

A hilarious comedy, "To-night's the Night", featuring Leslie Fuller, the English comedian, is the current release now showing at the Queen's Theatre.

In British International's picture, Fuller is starred as a slate club treasurer, who is robbed of funds on Christmas Eve. The theft is witnessed by Bill's pal, but he suffers from loss of memory, following a blow from the real thief, and is unable to testify. His misfortune results in Bill being sentenced to imprisonment for three years.

During a prison concert, in which, disguised as a lady cellist, he gives several hoisterous renderings, he is escorted out of the prison by the Governor, who mistakes him for a guest. There is a final whirlwind chase between a Mercedes Sports car and a baby Austin in which the real culprit is brought to justice, and the hero exonerated from all blame.

"MAN OF THE FOREST"—ALHAMBRA THEATRE

"Man of the Forest", a melodrama of the Rocky Mountains, featuring Randolph Scott and Verna Hillie, is Paramount's current attraction now showing at the Alhambra Theatre.

Like all Zane Grey stories, "Man of the Forest", is crammed with brisk action from start to finish, combined with humour and romance. Action follows when Noah Beery attempts to kidnap Verna Hillie to prevent her from aiding her uncle, Harry Carey, to save his land from Beery's depredations. To foil Beery's scheme, Scott captures Miss Hillie himself.

"THE SONG YOU GAVE ME"—STAR THEATRE

"The Song You Gave Me", now showing at the Star Theatre, is an engaging romance, full of charm and gaiety, featuring Bebe Daniels in her first British production.

The story is of a romance between a ravishing musical comedy star and a Guards Officer, who becomes her secretary. The supporting cast includes Victor Varconi, Frederick Lloyd, Lester Matthews, and Claude Hulbert.

"DANCING LADY"—ORIENTAL THEATRE

Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, two of the most prominent stars on the screen, are cast in a thrilling story of backstage life and romance in "Dancing Lady".

The glamorous Joan Crawford, gives a very striking performance and is well supported by Clark Gable, as the debonair stage-manager, Franchot Tone, as the millionaire suitor, May Robson, Nelson Eddy, Winnie Lightner and Robert Benchley.

"THE FOUR FRIGHTENED PEOPLE"—MAJESTIC THEATRE

A good cast, good photography, combined with humour and drama, make the "Four Frightened People"

BRIDGE NOTES

Penalty Doubles.

by Ely Culbertson.

Partners and opponents alike say of one of the world's ranking Bridge players that his only fault is a tendency to make Penalty Doubles at too early a stage in the bidding.

This fault, however, is quite common with good players, and nowhere is it more evident than in playing Duplicate Contract with match-point scoring.

Many players at Duplicate disregard the two-trick rule, which requires in Rubber Bridge an expectation of defeating the contract by at least two tricks, in games play, under these scoring conditions, a feeling that if opponents are defeated at an undoubted contract, their score will be bad unless they exact the entire pound of flesh by making a Penalty Double.

In a recent Bridge tournament in New York City, two players, holding the East hand below, doubled a contract of one heart because of the vulnerability of their opponents, only to find that the situation was such that the Double proved a losing venture. The hands and bidding were:

West, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

North:—
S—5 2
H—A 10 9 7 6 3
D—A 4
C—Q 6 3

West:—

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

West North East South

Pass (4) Pass
1—West's hand is a bare Opening bid, but unquestionably the bid should be made, particularly against vulnerable opponents when the player is not vulnerable himself.

2—A very sound Overcall. A six-card suit headed by the Ace and an outside Ace and Queen certainly justify an attempt, even by a vulnerable player, to defend, particularly when the (Continued in Next Column).

ple", a very entertaining film, the current attraction at the Majestic Theatre.

The four people in the picture are Claudette Colbert, Mary Boland, Herbert Marshall and William Gargan.

The story centres round a plague ship. The four people then take a small boat and land in the Malay jungle and are lost. Herbert Marshall plays the part of the "hen-pecked" chemist and acts as naturally as circumstances allow, while Miss Colbert and Miss Boland provide the love interest.

"MIDSHIPMAN JACK"—CENTRAL THEATRE

A charming love story interweaves the adventurous action of the film "Midshipman Jack" "R.K.O. Radio Picture, featuring Bruce Cabot and Betty Furness at the Central Theatre.

Cabot in the title role of "Midshipman Jack" is a young cadet who shuns rules and regulations to court his Commandant's daughter.

The climax of the production is an elaborate and thrilling spectacle, presenting a war manoeuvre with seaplanes and speedy submarine-chasers making an attack upon enemy submarines. The spectacle is topped with a daring stunt, a head-on crash between an aeroplane in full flight and an oncoming sub-chaser commanded by the film's hero.

Cabot and Betty Furness head the cast of "Midshipman Jack" supported by such popular performers as Frank Albertson, Arthur Lake, Farnell Seddon and John Darrow.

Christy Cabanne directed.

Attacked in the series of shootings and bombings terrorizing Havana, Carlos Menditea, right, president of Cuba, was wounded in the hand when a bomb exploded at a dinner, killing two sailors on guard. Colonel Eugenio Batista, former army sergeant who led the anti-Machado revolt, and now is commander of Cuba's armed forces, is shown at left, inspecting the chief executive's wound.

bid can be made at the range of one.

In view of his partner's Opening bid and two apparent trump tricks in his own hand, East feels that the penalty must be more than a non-vulnerable can (and at other tables they did) added. The reasoning is bad, however, as a three-trick penalty does not appear reasonably probable.

4—Probably West should rebid, for his hand is not at all strong defensively. But on the other hand East may have even greater heart strength than he actually holds.

In the play North was defeated one trick and lost 200 points. It will be noticed that East and West make four spades, losing one heart, one diamond and one club. The 200 points gained by the early Double were entirely inadequate compensation for the game given up.

LAWRENCE MAY SHATTER COLONY 100 YARDS SWIM MARK

On Thursday the Chinese Recreation Club defeated the Club de Recreio by 7 sets to 2 in the deciding "B" Division Lawn Tennis League match of the season. The C.R.C. have now held the title on eleven successive occasions.—(King's Studio).

INDIANS AGAIN SUCCEED

"A" Division Victory Over C. C. C.

WET COURTS TROUBLE PLAYERS

The Indian Recreation Club recorded their fourth victory by defeating the Craigengower Cricket Club by 5½ sets to 3½, in the "A" Division Lawn Tennis League at the C. C. C. yesterday. J. M. Raznek was a notable absentee from the Indians' team, being replaced by A. K. Sufiad, a "B" Division player, while the C.C.C. were deprived of Y. Hachima, who was replaced by C. Luck. H. D. Rumjahn and J. Cassumbhoy were the best pair on the courts, winning two and drawing one set. They displayed good all round tennis and splendid understanding. In their set against A. V. Gosano and G. Lau, they started poorly, losing the first four games, but by a splendid recovery, forced a draw. Gosano's service was superb, while his partner's net play won them many points.

J. W. Leonard and R. Choa, the C.C.C.'s No. 1 pair won their first two sets, but were troubled by the wet courts in the third. A. K. Sufiad combined well with A. R. Minu, who's swerving services were very successful.

Scores: J. W. Leonard and R. Choa (C.C.C.) beat A. R. Minu and A. K. Sufiad 6-3. Ismail beat A. R. Minu and A. K. Sufiad 6-3. A. V. Gosano and G. ### S.C.A.A. SWIMMERS HONOURED.

Champions Of Canton Water Polo League.

Six local members of the Mak Ngak Swimming Union's water-polo team, champions of the Canton International Water-polo League, are leaving the Colony to-night by the s.s. Tung On for Canton, where they will receive prizes to-morrow.

The party are all South China Athletic Association swimmers, being comprised of Wong Sun-man, Kwok Chun-hang, Shek Kam-pui, Kwok Muk-hoi, Ho Ping-kei and Wong Yu-man.

Before the distribution of prizes, a water-polo match against the Canton Foreign Marines will be staged at the Yat Sau swimming beach.

CHINESE ATHLETIC AQUATIC MEET

Swimming Gala Next Saturday

RACE FOR JOURNALISTS

The Chinese Athletic Association's second swimming gala of the season, which was to have been held last Saturday, will take place next Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, at the Club's bathing beach, North Point. A very attractive programme has been drawn up, which includes an open event to local journalists, a "Tug-O-War", and a water-polo match, probably against a team from the Victoria Recreation Club.

The prizes for the winners of the gala will be donated by Miss Ito Muk-lan, daughter of Mr. Hu Han-min, the well-known political leader. The following is the programme: 100 metres (boy beginners) 400 metres (Open to journalists) 50 metres (women) (representatives in any National Athletic meetings except). 200 metres (men's). 100 metres (children's Derby race Tug-O-War). 200 metres breast-stroke (women's). 200 metres breast-stroke (men's). 400 metres (open to Colony). Water Polo (probably v. V.R.C.).

SUSSEX ARE AGAIN HELD IN TITLE RACE

Although two full innings remained to be played on the last day, the Gentlemen defeated the Players by 7 wickets at Lord's. The Players declared when 245 had been compiled for 5 wickets. A. Mitchell scoring 120, and Sutcliffe 65.

A magnificent innings by R. E. S. Wyatt, England's Test captain, who scored 104 not out, aided by C. F. Walters, England's opening bat and deputy skipper, who scored 79, enabled the Gentlemen to secure the necessary 232 runs for the loss of only 3 wickets.

Yorkshire experienced no difficulty in beating Worcester by 10 wickets, Bowes, the England fast bowler securing for 85. Lancashire consolidated their position in second place in the County Championship by beating Gloucestershire by 108 runs. After the Red Rose county had declared twice Pollard took 6 Gloucester wickets for 21.

FRIENDLY

At Lord's, the Gentlemen beat the Players by 7 wickets. Players: 233 (Leyland 80, Ames 76, Brown 4 for 106). 245 for 5 dec. (A. Mitchell 120, Sutcliffe 65). Gentlemen: 277 (J. H. Homan 66, G. O. Allen 63, Mitchell 4 for 94). 232 for 3 (C. F. Walters 79, R. E. S. Wyatt 104 not out).

EARLIER RESULTS.

FRIENDLY At Sunderland, the Australians drew with Durham. Durham: 73 (L. Fleetwood-Smith 7 for 21) and 204 for 6 (C. L. Adamson 52, G. Hickman 52).

GERMAN CLUB WIN AGAIN

South China Retain 100 Per Cent.

"C" DIVISION LEAGUE TENNIS

Only three "C" Division Lawn Tennis League Matches were played off yesterday, rain upsetting the remaining fixtures. Of those played, only two were completed, although the match between South China A.A. and the University reached a definite conclusion before it was abandoned, South China leading by 6-nil.

K.C.C. BEAT INDIANS

HOW COTTON WON GOLF TITLE NEARLY DISASTER IN LAST ROUND AS SARAZEN'S RECORD EQUALLED

BREWS SECOND AND PADGHAM THIRD

(By GEORGE GREENWOOD)

SANDWICH, JUNE 30. HENRY COTTON WON THE BRITISH OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP AT ROYAL ST. GEORGES HERE TO-DAY WITH 283, A SCORE EQUALLING THE RECORD ESTABLISHED BY GENE SARAZEN AT PRINCE'S TWO YEARS AGO.

S. F. Brews, the South African champion, was second with 288, and A. H. Padgham third with 290. There was a triple tie for 4th place, at 292, between two Americans, Macdonald Smith and J. Kirkwood, and a Frenchman, Marcel Dallemagne.

Cotton has thus broken the American monopoly of the championship which has run for eleven years and has virtually been in existence since the War.

HE HAD ESTABLISHED SO ENORMOUS A LEAD THAT IT SEEMED IMPOSSIBLE ANYONE COULD CATCH HIM. WITH THE LAST ROUND TO PLAY HE HAD A CLEAR ADVANTAGE OF TEN SHOTS OVER THE NEXT MAN. IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN SOMETHING IN THE NATURE OF A TRIUMPHANT PROCESSION, BUT AS THINGS TURNED OUT IT WAS ALTOGETHER DIFFERENT.

As the strokes began to slip away Cotton became fidgetty and restless, and on one occasion he even went so far as to tell a spectator that he knew his own business and required to be left alone. Cotton's progress on the downward path was not arrested until the 13th hole was reached where he was seven under 4's.

It was a critical position, but to his everlasting credit he made a supreme effort to pull himself together and succeeded. The situation was saved, and playing the next five holes normally he wanted a 4 at the 18th to beat Sarazen's record. Cotton was bunkered and, taking a "5", failed. Considering the enormous strain he may in the circumstances be forgiven the slip.

The Vital Third Round Arriving from all parts of the country a big crowd assembled to see how Cotton would fare in the vital third round, vital because it is the stage in the championship which shows of what stuff the leader is made.

Would Cotton maintain his position of glorious isolation or would he break, as so many have done before him? The answer was quickly forthcoming. Not only did he not break, but he actually increased his lead by one stroke.

The triumphant procession thus proceeded without interruption, though there was nothing in the way of phenomenal scoring. Indeed, it was not a day for record breaking. A high wind from the sea made the course four to five shots harder than on the two previous days.

Disturbed By Camera Cotton was found in 72, an eminently safe and, in fact, excellent score in the circumstances. It would certainly have been one

A long brassie shot at the seventh, caught by the wind, drifted into a bunker on the left, and his second 5 was registered.

Cotton was not worrying; he smiled, and walked to the next tee. He was bunkered again at the ninth, and in playing an awkward shot from a difficult position he completely lost his balance and fell in the sand.

Great cheering greeted the holing of a putt of seven yards for a 4 after all. A score of 35 to the turn was more than good enough for the purpose.

Concentration Breaks A slight break in concentration was noticeable at the eleventh where Cotton bungled a little chip from the back of the green. Playing down wind to the fourteenth, the Suez Canal hole, measuring shot less had not a woman standing behind Cotton when playing a little pitch from the rough to the last green thoughtlessly clicked a camera. With concentration suddenly broken Cotton hit the ball clean off the socket to cover point. There was that awful prospect of a 6, his first in the championship, but fortunately this was avoided as he chipped over the bank on to the green and holed a putt of 7 ft. for a 5.

Cotton's play for the first three holes was indicative of the grip he had on himself. He was off the green at each, but chipped up and holed the putt for the par figure. Another player, just a little frightened of himself, might easily have taken 5's or even 6's. So far Cotton had played fifty-seven holes on the St. George's course, eighteen of them in a qualifying round, without taking a 5—an almost incredible record of efficiency.

His First 5 The sequence was broken at the fourth, where, on a slope at the back of the green with his second shot, he tried to pitch from a downward lie and failed. That the course presented an entirely different proposition from the previous days was shown by the fact that there were three holes, the fifth (451 yards), the seventh (493 yards), and the thirteenth (443 yards), which, owing to a head wind, could not be reached in two shots even by a young and powerful player like Cotton, who can pull out a little extra when it is needed.

At the fifth he carried the famous Maiden bunker with a glorious brassie shot, but was a good way short of the green. However, Cotton played a deft little pitch and run and holed the putt for a 4.

A long brassie shot at the seventh, caught by the wind, drifted into a bunker on the left, and his second 5 was registered.

Cotton was not worrying; he smiled, and walked to the next tee. He was bunkered again at the ninth, and in playing an awkward shot from a difficult position he completely lost his balance and fell in the sand.

INFANTRY COMPANY FAVOURED

VOLUNTEER GALA TO-NIGHT

LADIES' RECORD MAY BE SHATTERED

(By G. L.)

COMPETITION for the supremacy at to-night's Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps Swimming Carnival has been stimulated under the new scheme whereby the Corps is divided into four units.

The new classification has had the effect of distributing the talent very evenly and many keenly contested races are promised.

The Portuguese Company (the Infantry Unit), will now be seriously challenged by the Static Machine Gunners and the Mobile Machine Gunners.

RECORD ENDANGERED In the open 100 yards event, W. Lawrence, the champion of the Colony, is expected to shatter the existing record of the Colony—59.15 seconds, held by D. Lyon.

Lawrence is in great trim at the moment, and in an unofficial trial last week bettered this time, recording 58.35 for the distance.

Thrilling races are promised in the team race over 300 yards and the Medley race. The Infantry (Continued on Page 5)

EXHIBITION BOXING IN LION'S CAGE

Spectacle Excites Crowd But Animals Merely Yawn

Two American boxers, Claude Varner and Ted Morgan, have given a three-minute exhibition of boxing in a lion's cage at a Sydney circus. The spectacle excited the crowd, but the lions merely yawned.

TRIUMPHS IN TRIAL

(Portuguese) unit will be supported by Lionel Roza-Pereira, E. B. da Roza, B. Gosano and E. M. Marques.

The main strength of the Static Machine Gunners lies in S. V. Gittins, A. Donn and E. F. Selk. The Mobile M. G. unit include such names as T. L. Paget, G. Fowler and J. Sloan.

INFANTRY FAVOURED

The Infantry are favoured to win both these events, but not without a stern challenge from the Static M. G. unit. The Mobile unit, although very strong, does not possess the individual strength of their opponents.

The high diving event, which is now a competition between teams of 3, and not for individual honours, promises to be the most keenly contested event on the programme.

The Infantry have two experts in Edward Roza, many times champion of the Colony, and Lionel Roza-Pereira, while the Static Machine Gunners are aided by E. F. Selk, one of the leading Y.M.C.A. divers, and A. D. Lowson.

LADIES' RECORD

The ladies' event, 50 yards free style, has attracted the fastest European lady swimmers in the Colony. Many of whom have not competed against one another for a very long time. The race is expected to develop into a tussle between Miss D. Hunt, Harbour race winner, Mrs. W. Shrauder, and Mrs. Maude George Read, a former harbour race winner. It is possible that a record will be established for this event.

Another attraction on the programme is the pillow fight in which 16 competitors will battle for the honours. L. A. V. de Soares, who won the event last year, is again entered.

WATER POLO FINAL

The final of the inter-unit water polo match will be played off between the Static Machine Gunners and the Mobile Machine Gunners.

ARMY AQUATIC SPORTS

"D" Coy. Lincolns At Y.M.C.A. Bath.

TWO FINALS DECIDED YESTERDAY

Some excellent swimming and diving was witnessed yesterday at the aquatic sports of the "D" Support Company of the Lincolnshire Regiment, held at the Y.M.C.A. bath.

Two finals were reached, while the heats of the other events were swum off.

The results were:—

75 yards free style:—

1st heat, Pte. Price; 2nd heat, Pte. Birks.

25 yards final:—

1, L/S. Shnoble; 2, Pte. Price; 3, L/C. Keegan.

50 yards final:—

1, Pte. Price; 2, L/S. Shnoble.

Consolation race 150 yards:—

1, Pte. Burrows; 2, Pte. Jepson.

The "A" Company, South Wales Borderers are holding their aquatic sports at the Y.M.C.A. bath on Wednesday, August 8.

Between the Static Machine Gunners and the Mobile Machine Gunners, the Infantry and Small Units having been eliminated in the heats.

At the conclusion of the programme, the prizes will be presented by Lady Southern, wife of Sir Thomas Southern, K.B.E., the Colonial Secretary, after which there will be dancing to the music of the Blue Rhythm Orchestra.

Among the distinguished guests who have been invited are Col. H. B. L. Dowbiggin, O.B.E., and Miss Dowbiggin, Sir Thomas Southern, K.B.E., C.M.G., and Lady Southern, Major G. P. R. Black, V.D., and Mrs. Black, Major J. R. R. Ritchell, O.B.E., and Mrs. Mitchell, Capt. P. S. M. Wilkinson, Col. and Mrs. Carrington-Sykes, and the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell.

COLLINS TAKES SET FROM CRAWFORD

HOPMAN BEATS MERLIN ON WET COURTS

OVERSEAS WOMEN FAIL

London, June 28.

RAIN cut athwart the Wimbledon programme yesterday, and only a section of the card could be completed. There were slight showers before the stoppage at 4.30, then play was adjourned for over an hour; later it was possible to resume on three courts only.

The damp turf, inimical to fluent footwork, was unappreciated by mineral court players like Merlin and Rogers; it aided slicers like Collins and Hopman, and delighted the heart of a clever "drop-shotter," like Mme. Menrotin.

The unsavoury-like conditions, bringing wraps on the gallery courts for a long period and wraps on the waiting thousands outside, did not induce brilliant play, especially from the Continentals, who rarely strike discoloured balls on a surface that does not lift them to the height of their waists. There were depressions of form in unexpected places.

Only six matches were down for decision in the men's singles, and in four of these Australians were engaged. Before serious rain came Hopman and Quist had gathered two important scalps. They did not give their victims the consolation of a set.

Harry Hopman's adversary was Andre Merlin, the newly-enrolled musketeer of France; and since Merlin has beaten Crawford, Quist, and McGrath in Europe, this year, there was a certain piquancy in this victory of an Australian who was not selected a member of the Australian Davis Cup team.

Of the wisdom of his exclusion I offer no opinion, but Hopman's play yesterday was some of the best seen at Wimbledon this week. He had a favourable court, it is true—slow turf to depress his opponent and to help his drop volleys—but the forecourt stroke was only part of Hopman's equipment.

He was serving extremely well, and his forcing shots had length as well as speed.

Merlin was always trying to steal the attack, but nearly always falling because the Australian, with the quickest reflection, commanded the shot that threw him on the defensive. There is no better lobber than a man who has spent his tennis life in clearing the heads of the fine Australian smashers.

It was an education to see Hopman forcing the Frenchman to make a volte face when he came in expectantly for a winning coup.

But these shrewdly-played jobs were only part of the poison; points were scored more quickly with "wrong-footing" service re-

Andrews' Revival.

The German champion was a set up and 5-1 before the issue was really joined. Then Andrews found a length and touch that had been woefully lacking, and his opponent, surprised at a revival, began to falter.

He kept on hitting the tape, with would-be winners; perhaps his aim was disturbed by the poor light.

The New Zealander, using the slice volley freely on the damp surface, drew to 4-5 and came within a stroke of 5-5. He failed to clinch an opening here, serving a double fault. But he forced a useful lead in the third set, only to fade when Von Cramm regained the initiative. Better strokes and better training earned their reward.

Austin Goes All Out.

Austin paid Turnbull the tribute of going all out. Perhaps he remembered a five-set engagement at Bournemouth last year. The Australian made a good fight but it was always against odds, for he was scarcely a match for Austin in the baseline exchanges.

When he came in it was to find his wings singed by burning drives. The second set, decided in a drizzle, was the closest. Both men were slipping, and when the score was four-all Austin replaced his rubber-soled shoes by a pair with steel points.

He had forgotten the fact that these were "Verboten" on the sacred No. 1 turf. A message was conveyed to him by the referee; he compromised by removing the steel points and covering his shoes with an odd pair of socks.

Thus protected, though only partially, from further falls, he went on to decisive victory. The shoe-changing may have had some slight psychological effect on Turnbull, but he gave no sign of a ruffled front, and, indeed,

CHINA'S ENTRY TO WORLD OLYMPIAD AT BERLIN

Participation To Be Discussed At N.A.A.F. Meeting In Nanking

Dr. C. T. Wang, Chairman of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, arrived in Shanghai from Tientsin yesterday, on his way to attend the all-China Athletic Conference in Nanking next Friday.

It is understood that China's participation in the 1936 World Olympic Games will be discussed at this meeting.

served some fine balls after the incident.

Threat To Champion.
Crawford and Collins played their centre court match in segments divided by rain; the curtain went up and down on quite a thrilling drama.

To appreciate the threat to the champion it must be remembered that the Scot is one of the pluckiest fighters on a wet surface—or indeed on a dry one.

Had he not dismissed Cochet from the tournament two years ago, and had he not, after breaking his leg in a steeplechase at home, returned to tournament play this summer to win the doubles at two big meetings preceding Wimbledon?

Collins had planned his anti-Crawford campaign carefully, and the gods were kind to him in that a wet surface, favouring his sliced returns, was provided for his purpose.

When he had won the opening set to four, one thought of "a lucky chance that off decides the fate of mighty monarch."

Human Catherine Wheel.

To a hustling service, which ruled out an offensive reply, the Scot added the steadiest ground stroke play. He tried, and for a time succeeded, to force a short-length ball that gave him in reply a heavily cut entry to Crawford's backhand line or corner.

You would then see a kind of human Catherine wheel at the net, stowing away the ball at short range, or, if it were lofted, achieving a smash which looked only possible to a contortionist.

In the gloom of coming rain, which Scotsmen never despise, Collins was in his element, while Crawford was possibly thinking of Verity and his countrymen's fate in another place.

A set in hand, Collins might have taken the first game in the second set; he hit the tape with a winner, then Crawford went to two love. Then rain came, and with it the tarpaulins.

The champion had a long time for reflection out of court. When he resumed it was to dominate the situation. There was another shower and another break, but Collins captured only one more game. Both wore socks over their shoes; it was grim going.

An Incessant Stream.

The winning shots flowed in one incessant stream—service aces and wide, ungettable drives alternated. One thought in the last set Collins was nursing a knee that had gone "groggy" on Monday. Certainly his rousing raids in the first set could only be maintained by a fit man.

The executive had planned to reduce the women's singles to a field of 32, but the weather upset this intention. A few third-round matches remain over until to-day.

Among the casualties yesterday were: Mlle. Rosambert, the covered court champion of France; Mlle. Valerio, champion of Italy; Miss E. M. Dearman, a member of the Wightman Cup team; Miss Virginia Rice, of America (defeated by Mrs. Hopman); and Mrs. Pittman, who fell to Miss Harvey.

It was not a day for a French stylist, and Miss Caroline Babcock, the Californian athlete, had defeated Mlle. Rosambert after a close first set. The winner made

PEAK CLUB ANNUAL MEETING

Bright Report For Past Year.

NEW COMMITTEE ELECTED

An improvement in the financial position and an increase in the use of its social amenities were reported at the annual general meeting of the Peak Club, held last night under the chairmanship of Mr. D. W. Trantman.

The Chairman said: "The Profit and Loss Account shows a Profit of $345.03 as compared with a Profit of $357.60 for the previous twelve months, and although your Committee are pleased to be able to show this satisfactory result they feel that greater measure of support is due to the Club from members generally. Once again your Committee appeal to members to make use of the amenities of the Club and to encourage fellow members to do likewise. You will observe that Subscriptions are down by some $583.00 and this can only be remedied if members will do all they can to bring along new members."

The new General Committee was elected as follows: Messrs. L. C. F. Bellamy, F. C. Hall, E. A. Jenkinson, D. J. Lewis, W. H. Lock, A. S. Mackichan, L. N. Murphy, D. W. Trantman, and H. C. B. Way, honorary secretary.

The new Balloting Committee was elected as follows: Messrs. J. W. Alabaster, J. W. Franks, R. E. Lindell, R. M. McEay and Sir Henry Pollock.

RABBIT MISTAKEN FOR BABY.

Mysterious Corpse In Canal.

Cairo. A farmer in Choubra (Lower Egypt) found a mysterious "Corpse" floating in the canal. He took it to the police who made elaborate enquiries as to how the body, assumed to be that of a baby, came to be in the water.

Little progress was made and finally the C.I.D. was called in. The officer immediately discovered that the "baby's body" was in reality that of a rabbit.—Reuter.

counts. ....

You know those "occasions" when your man brings an important business friend home to dinner? The meal must be perfect, but you don't want to sit down all "hot and bothered" with the cooking! ....

This is where the "New World" "Regulo"—controlled Gas Cooker proves its worth, for you need only set the "Regulo" oven-heat controller, place the dinner, all together, in the oven, and then leave it to cook itself, unattended, until you are ready to serve it.

Doesn't this sound marvellous? .... But thousands of women enjoy a new leisure by using this wonderful Cooker.

Vienna.

The fierceness of the party conflicts in Vienna, and the immediate reaction of Europe in the keenest possible interest in these quick-firing onsets must be very difficult to understand for anyone who has not a bowing acquaintance with the history of Europe and European civilisation. Never did so shallow a philosophy as the Marxian materialism, which explains all past events by geographical and statistical calculations of the means of existence, get accepted by so large a proportion of mankind. Every incident of current history throws a lurid light on the absurdity of the theory that men exist to make money and will be satisfied with any political arrangements that make money-making easy. There are certain places that appeal to the imagination and to deep historical instincts in a way that cannot be explained by saying that a city is a collection of buildings that give accommodation to business men. Rome of course is such a city. Naples is both bigger and richer than Rome; but what happens at Naples is merely a local affair. Vienna is another such centre. Founded as an outpost against the barbarians of the North, it became the outpost of the Teutonic and Christian West against the Asiatic invaders, with the Turks as its spearhead. It was before the walls of Vienna that the gage of battle decided that the boundary should be put to the Mahomedan conquest of Europe; and it was from that centre that Western life and thought gradually spread amongst the strange and fierce peoples who had settled to the East.

Then came the long centuries of twilight; when the ideal of human co-operation was represented by the double system of one Church and one civil power, and the two forces, engaged in a desperate struggle with lawless and ignorant nobles, were only too often in conflict with each other. Vienna naturally was the spiritual home of the Holy Roman Empire; and the old ideal survived in the Emperor's title until it was abolished by Napoleon, who vainly hoped that the halo might come to rest on his own head. The Emperor however retained the right of a veto at the conclaves held for the election of a Pope; and the veto was actually exercised within the lifetime of men not so very old to-day. Here then was the home of high ideals and an old society, of principles, of lost causes and forsaken beliefs, of the sort that men die for without counting the cost.

In the Nineteenth Century Vienna had become the symbol and shrine of the Germanic ideal in literature and art and culture. The much cruder and more military ideals of Brandenburg and Prussia were looked upon with a kindly patronage which gave offence to men who were inclined to assert the paramount claims of blood and iron. In the rivalry between Prussia and Austria the issue was decided at Sadowa, and for half a century Europe was kept in unrest by the antagonistic impulses of the ambition to re-unite all the German-speaking peoples and the unwillingness to submit to the militarist capitalism of the Bismarck regime, which only became more stark and drastic under Bismarck's successors. Prussia appeared to have won the fight through the device of the Triple Alliance. On looking back it seems that Europe was premature in taking that for granted, what had really happened was that Germany had lost the right of final decision by binding herself to support Vienna even in a policy of adventure, and that if the responsibility for choice between war and peace was on any man's shoulders, that man was Count Berchtold.

The result of losing the big stake was that Vienna was left as an Imperial City without an Empire, surrounded by former subjects and neighbours who were resolved that she should not regain her old authority, but above all should not revive her old life in the new role of Southern outpost of the blood and iron doctrine. Vienna herself, created and nourished the life of an Imperial centre, had felt not only unable but disinclined to accept the more humble role of a provincial town. If she has needed to be kept alive by loans from the League of Nations it has largely been because she herself has lost the will to live.

The ghosts of the past have refused to be laid. Moderation and compromise can only be proposed where the State itself is something dearly prized and worth a sacrifice; they are mere irrelevant when the dispute is "what sort of a State are we to have?" There is a large section of Socialists who are opposed to the old religion and to any merely nationalist society. The old international tradition survives in them, as an economic ideal which involves the abolition of classes and all traces of a graded social organism. Another large section retains the old ideal of Germanic unity regardless of the question whether it be immediately practical or not, and re-unites at the present moment would mean mere submission to blood and iron doctrine and the drill sergeant. Dr. Dollfuss was our day.

HERE, THERE and EVERYWHERE

COTE D'AZUR COMMOTION

The recent rioting at Mentone comes as a reminder that Communism is by no means unknown in the playground of the capitalists.

In the South of France it is said to be largely fomented by Italian Reds.

It is, however, unlikely that the subversive elements will permanently impair the tranquil amenities of Mentone—including those of the Mentone Tennis and Croquet Club. The demise of this club was reported some time ago. The secretary, however, states that it still lives, and is, in fact, on the verge of its thirty-fourth birthday.

HUMAN CANNON-BALLS

The unfortunate Gaston Richard who was killed recently, was not the first "human cannon-ball."

Veteran—very veteran—London playgoers will remember Zazel, who was shot out of a cannon nightly at the old Aquarium, Westminster.

This performer was referred to for years as Miss Zazel. Actually "she" was a man dressed as a girl.

"Her" successor, Zaed, really was a girl. She elaborated the performance by being shot forth in flames.

These acts were run by an Italian named Farini. In a burlesque at the old Gaiety Edward Terry used to ask Nellie Farren, who was in the cannon: "Are you in? Are you far in? Are you nearly far in? Are you Nellie Far-in? Are you Farini?"

Your Daily Smile!

A retired business man has bought an old railway carriage and installed it as a summer-house in his garden. It must be thrilling to stroll leisurely down the path with the certainty of getting a corner seat.

The reason cartoonists can't spell is because "proof-readers" can't correct hand lettering.

The Autograph Hunter

"But I've signed your book before," said the fairly distinguished film actor. "Yes, sir, but when I get ten of yours I can swap them for one of George Arliss."

The girl who marries a man with money to burn usually makes a good match.

A survey shows that the American market for automobiles is nowhere near exhausted, as there are still several million homes which have not been mortgaged to buy cars.

Show Him Out

"Is your young man popular with your people?" "I should say so. 'Dad comes downstairs every night at 12 o'clock to see him off."

European tourists are now visiting the United States. Maybe they want to see the ruins of 1929.

Facts You Did Not Know

A radio station will be erected in New York state from which teachers on the ground will instruct aviation students while they are in flight.

Italian imports of fuel oils have virtually doubled in the last four years, nearly all of the increase coming from Rumania and Soviet Russia.

With a new office device any stock market quotations desired can be received in a private office by putting dial signals through to an exchange.

Argentina has approximately 1800 places for exhibition of motion pictures, about 75 per cent. of the sound apparatus coming from the United States.

The champion of a minority party that clung to the old faith and took its inspiration from Rome even in methods of industrial organisation.

There is little room for compromise between such divergent ideals; some party may gain ascendancy, but will only keep it by having the stronger military force.

In that small area the most vital forces of the Europe of our day have clashed for their first trial of strength, but the end of the struggle will not be seen in the struggle of our day.

NEW HOPE COMES TO A BARREN LAND ORANGE FREE STATE'S POSSIBILITIES

GOLD MAY BE FOUND

(By Sir Alfred Beit, M.P.)

AFRICA is the land of undying rumours of mineral resources, even though many of the dreams do not come true.

Farmers and travellers have for many years reported the existence of minerals in almost all parts of the continent. Many have spent their lives trying to prove their claims workable. A few have prospered; many have abandoned their claims or died with unrealised hopes.

But very rich yields have been discovered, especially of gold, diamonds, and, most recently, of copper in Northern Rhodesia. When I read recently that the South African Government expert was examining the probabilities of a new goldfield in the Orange Free State, I was neither sceptical nor over-optimistic.

In the old days Free State farmers, even when they were "trekking" away from the too-progressive British, were able to smelt their own lead for bullets; and they reported richer minerals. But there is a very great difference between the mere existence of minerals and discovery in payable quantities. While the Transvaal has developed the richest gold field in the whole world, its Dutch neighbour has been left at the mercy of a most inclement and treacherous combination of climate and land. Of the 32,000,000 acres of land in the Orange Free State, less than three million are recorded in the census as under cultivation.

Some ten million sheep are scattered over this State, but for pasture they must regularly trek to more fertile neighbouring lands. When the first Boers sighted the Free State land they saw that it was green.

It is often too easy to change a fertile country into a desert. Man does not always make two blades of grass grow where one grew before. Too often, through ignorance or carelessness, he destroys the one blade. This has happened in the Orange Free State.

The ground was made to carry far too many sheep; when the inevitable drought came, as it regularly did, these creatures would trample the ground under foot in a desperate search for whatever green stuff was left.

The surface of the land went hard, baked by the terrible sun, and could not easily throw forth green shoots again. The dry land began to crack; the dreaded "velitas" appeared. These are deep cracks in the surface of the soil, and their meaning is that when rain does come it will mostly be lost through being conducted along these cracks instead of being allowed to soak into the surface.

To complete this process of desert-making, the desperate sheep, after each drought, would at once eat up any vegetation that did contrive to show itself, so that the land was never sheltered from the scorching sun.

For many years now there has been but little green in the Orange Free State. It has become permanently a land of bare, brown surfaces. When rains have come they have not brought grass, but floods: Nature's balance of vegetation has been upset. But last December and January, the evil genius of the country arose and there was a terrible succession of drought and flood. In December the land was not even brown; it was a sickly grey. All rivers were dried up, and even the Orange River itself had scarcely a patch of mud in it. The few small towns of the province had continual dust storms which turned day into night more effectively than the worst London fogs.

The South African Parliament, ever hopeful, repeated history by voting immense sums of money for irrigation works. How often before had hopes been pinned to these! But Nature took the law into her own hands and leaped from the curse of drought to its opposite, the curse of flood. The Orange Free State experienced in January the worst flood devastation in the history of South Africa. Existing irrigation schemes had been designed to cope with flood waters, to hold them and distribute them to the farms; but they could not cope with these torrents. At least one and a half million pounds' worth of irrigation works were estimated to be destroyed.

Badly-Needed Finances

No country ever stood in more need of a lucky find of gold than the Orange Free State does to-day. But the benefits of such a find, if it should be proved, would not by any means be confined to the Free State. They would certainly react upon the whole of the Union of South Africa, and hence upon the Empire. When gold was found in the Transvaal the South African Republic, as it then was, changed from an impoverished agricultural region, without markets for its few products. The gold fields gave it railways, towns, a revenue from taxes, and an educational and land settlement system, largely carried out by the genius of Lord Milner. It led directly to the unification of South Africa, for the railway lines from the ports to the Rand passed through all the scattered provinces and created a Dominion.

The Orange Free States, although she was next door to the Transvaal, and had the same soil, benefited least by these improvements. To this day her white population, spread over her area of 50,000 square miles, is less than that of a medium-sized English provincial town such as Newcastle-on-Tyne. Her Native population is under half a million souls, so that she has no great labour supply. Our hope must be that with the coming of solvency the whole spirit of South African politics would change. It is perhaps the worst misfortune of that country that its politics have been dominated by the semiarid regions of the Orange Free State and the Transvaal. The great Dutch vote is centred there. Political feeling is influenced by the severe and, on the whole, losing struggle with the land. This bitterness enters into politics. The farmers are jealous of the gold miners and on the least provocation will consider imposing new taxes on them.

Cause Of Coalition

The real reason for the Smuts-Hertzog coalition was the impoverishment of the Free State and the neighbouring part of the Transvaal. The Free State had failed to meet her obligations. She had virtually lost her right to be an independent member of the Union. Her farmers were in the same plight, for in the comparative agricultural boom from 1919 to 1928 they had cheerfully mortgaged their land up to the hilt.

PRESENTATION TO POLICE OFFICER.

Inspector James Leaves
For Home To-day.

The presentation of a cheque as a gift from the members of the Police Recreation Club and his friends was made to Inspector F. T. James, of the Hong Kong Police Force, who is leaving for Home to-day on retirement.

In accepting the gift, Inspector James said that there were a number of former local police officers in retirement in England. In addition to those on leave, and a reunion dinner could be held in England.

The health and prosperity of Inspector and Mrs. James was drunk with musical honours.

Officers present included the Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, I.G.P., Mr. T. H. King, D.I.G.P., Mr. T. Murphy, A.D.C.I., Chief Inspector Marks, Chief Inspector Booker, Divisional Inspectors Brennan, Shafton, Carpenter, McClellan, Inspectors M. Murphy, A. V. Baker, Dredge, Armit, Mist, Whant, Stewart Logan, Fazil Mohammed, Ng Mui, Hsiang and many Sergeants.

PRICES RALLY ON WALL STREET

Trading Brisk On Advance.

SILVER RULES DULL

New York, To-day.
With the exception of utilities, which declined a further .02 to 19.58, prices rallied on Wall Street yesterday. Industrial and rails were up 2.33 and .07 to 87.84 and 34.99 respectively. Bond recovered .34 to 93.59.
Business was brisk. 2,210,000 shares being traded.
The silver market was dull and featureless.

S. E. Levy And Company's Report

In their market report, Messrs. S. E. Levy and Company, correspondents for Messrs. White, Weld and Company, New York, state:

"Stocks: We continue to feel that at the present level, the market offers an opportunity for both investment and speculative purchases."

"Bonds: High-grades were a shade better on short covering and less pressure. Second-grade issues were better."

"Cotton: The market was quiet, but steady, pending the Government cotton crop report. The Trade is giving support on all fair setbacks. Purchases on dips are recommended."

"Rubber: Steady. The market held firm all through the session on local week-end covering and on small speculative buying. We would continue to remain on the side-lines until a more definite trend has been established."

"Wheat: Crop prospects are gradually decreasing. There was good character buying of wheat and feed-grains on all dips.—Reuter."

E. A. Pierce Co.'s Report

In their market report, the American Oriental Finance Corporation, correspondents for Messrs. E. A. Pierce and Company, New York, state:

"Stocks: With the exception of utility issues, the market gave a satisfactory performance. However, the test period has not passed; consequently, a conservative attitude is best."

"Wheat: There was some replacing of holdings on less favourable Canadian crop news."

"Cotton: Prices advanced gradually, encouraged by more favourable interpretation of the foreign situation, a firmer stock market and lack of rain in Oklahoma and Texas. Replacing of holdings by long operators has appeared. There was some Trade buying, but on a similar scale."

"Silver: The market remains unchanged."

Night Telegram

The following telegram was received from New York during the night service:

"The Austrian situation, the drought position and a probable lack of short interest are favourable factors. However, we believe the selling climax was reached yesterday and, in the likely absence of any catastrophic news, industrial issues should improve."

"Prices opened higher on large blocks of shares being transacted. In the silver market, 319 Notices were quickly absorbed. Prices were lower on cables from abroad."

"There is a good demand for cotton, with no pressure to sell. The market acts well."

Dividends Declared

"Kroger Corporation has declared a dividend of 40 cents."

"Bendix Aviation Corporation has declared a dividend of 72 cents."

"Industrial Alcohol has declared a dividend of 90 cents for the past six months."

"Procter and Gamble declared a dividend of $2.09 for the past year."

"The net operating income of Pennsylvania Railway for the past six months totalled $31,715,000 against $25,846,000 for the corresponding period of last year."

"Consolidated Gas has earned 41 cents for the second-quarter or 40 per cent. less than the second-quarter of 1933.—Reuter."

DESERTS TITLED BRIDE

Grandson Of Late Copper King.

GOSSIPING BLAMED

New York.
The fact that Mr. Clendenin J. Ryan Jr., grandson of the late Mr. Thomas Fortune Ryan, copper magnate, has separated from his bride of two months, Countess Marie-Anne von Wurmb-Stuppach of Vienna, has been confirmed.

Mr. Ryan's lawyer admitted that a suit was in preparation but declined to reveal the nature of it.

The couple were married in St. Patrick's Cathedral here last February after a courtship, which is said to have lasted six weeks.

The Countess blamed the trouble, whatever it was, on idle gossip.

"There would not have been any trouble at all," she said, "if people and only let us alone. But they are always gossiping and always carrying tales."

Mr. Ryan, who is one of the secretaries to the Mayor of New York, was brief, but positive about the matter.

"I am not living with her and I am not going back there," he said. His wife is living at an hotel here. Mr. Ryan referred all further questions to his lawyer.

Recently, the Countess reported that jewels, valued at $1,000 had been stolen from her at the Metropolitan Opera House.—Reuter.

FRENCH SISTER HONOURED.

Rev. Sister Marguerite's 30 Years' Service.

The Rev. Sister Marguerite, of the Society of St. Paul de Chartres, Mother Superior in Charge of the French Hospital in Hong Kong, has had conferred on her by the French Government the Croix de Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur.

The Rev. Sister Marguerite, has been engaged for over 30 years in work in the various French hospitals.

LOCAL NEWS BREVITIES

Two deaths from typhoid fever and a death from meningitis were reported in the Colony during the 24 hours ended Thursday.

The name of the Hoi Fook Shipping Company, Limited, has been struck of the Register of Companies, according to the Government Gazette.

Personal Par

It is notified in the Government Gazette that Dr. J. M. Gray resumed duty as Acting Medical Officer of Health on July 16.

No Visa Required For Holiday Trip By President Hoover To Manila

The Dollar Steamship Lines announce in connection with their advertisement in the shipping section of this paper, featuring their Special $12/0/0 Excursion to Manila over the August Bank Holiday, that this rate of $12/0/0 covers first-class accommodation throughout.

It is desired that the public be acquainted with the fact that on this excursion by their a.s. President Hoover, passengers travelling at this $12/0/0 rate will not be required to secure an American or Philippine visa. No visa of any kind is required for either Chinese or foreign passengers. The only requirement is that the passengers have some form of passport or other document for identification purposes. Arrangements have been made for

To-day's Short Story.

THE FIRST AUTUMN

By Erskine Caldwell

THEY sat on the lawn looking up at the fluttering leaves on the old maples. He was beside the wagon with his arm over the red wooden body; she was on the other side, sitting with her legs crossed under her and with her hands folded in her lap.

"That is the oldest tree over there," Elizabeth said, pointing across the lawn. "I know it's the oldest, because it's the one where the squirrels live."

"But that's not why it is the oldest, silly," Robert said. "It's the oldest because the leaves stay green the longest. The little trees turn red first."

A week ago all the trees were as green as the newly mown lawn, and then all of a sudden they had begun to turn. The grove of maples on the hill was orange and gold, the younger trees were the deeper colour, and in the yard the old maples that had been there scores of years were turning yellow and purple. In a short while the leaves would begin to twirl and spin on the branches when the breezes blew, and then they would twist themselves off and come fluttering down. After that the grass would die, the flowers would shrivel, and the hills and fields would be a deep dark brown until the first snow fell.

"The sky was raining paint last night while we slept," Elizabeth said. "It rained a pot of paint on every tree."

"Daddy says, it is the end of summer. He said that the trees turn into bright colours every year, when summer is over."

"I didn't see it last year," "But Daddy said that last year all the trees were coloured. They were yellow for a while, and then all of them were red. When the leaves turn red, that's when they are ready to fall almost any minute. That's because they are dead."

The front door opened. Robert dropped the wagon tongue and ran to the porch.

"Here's Daddy! Here's Daddy! Daddy's come out to play!" Elizabeth ran after him. They clambered up the porch steps as fast as they could.

"Now what?" Daddy said. "Play!" Robert said, jumping up and down, swinging on his arm.

"We're going to play!" "Is this the end of the week, Daddy?" Elizabeth asked. "Are you going to stay two whole days now?"

"It's the end of the week. No more city for two whole days." "Let's play," Robert said, pulling him down the steps. "Let's play everything!"

"We are tired of playing bear, aren't we?" Daddy said. "We played bear last week-end. What'll we play this week?"

"Bear!" Robert said. "Let's play bear again. It's much more fun than anything else."

"I've just thought of a new game to play," Daddy said. "How would you like to play horse, Robert?"

"Oh, let's play bear first of all," Elizabeth said, pulling him across the lawn. "Just for a little while, Daddy, and then we can play all the other games."

MONDAY'S STORY

Monday's story will be "Blind," by Douglas Boyd.

"All right then," Daddy said. "Who's going to be the great big black bear this time?"

"You are!" Robert said. "You're always the bear. Let's hear you growl!"

"Woof! Woof! Woof!" "Woof! Woof! Woof!" "Oh, don't scare me so!" Elizabeth said, crawling backward.

"Please don't scare me so! I'm awfully afraid of bears!" "Woof! Woof! Woof!" Daddy said, pawing the lawn and waddling after her.

"You're missing me!" Robert said. "Here I am. Growl some at me."

"Woof! Woof! Woof!" "Look! Here are some berries for the big black bear," Elizabeth said, holding out a handful of grass.

"Do you want some berries?" "Woof!" Daddy said, licking the short blades of grass from her hand. "Woof! Woof!"

"I'm going to ride the bear!" Robert said. "Look at me! I'm going to ride the big black bear's back. I'm not afraid!"

Robert ran and climbed on Daddy's back, whipping the bear with a maple tree twig to make him get-up. "Now, let's play horse," Daddy said. "This is a new game. We've never played horse before, have we, Elizabeth?"

"Oh, let's do," she said. "Hurry, Robert! Get down off the bear's back so we can all play horse. It's going to be lots of fun, isn't it, Daddy?"

"It certainly is," Daddy said. "But who is going to be the horse?" "Oh you are!" Elizabeth said. "You be the horse."

"All right, I'm the horse. Now look out! Here comes the wild white horse!"

"What's the horse going to do?" Robert said.

"The horse wants some sugar," Daddy said. "The horse like sugar better than anything else. He likes salt sometimes, but he would rather have sugar now. He hasn't had any for a long time."

"Where's the horse going to get sugar?" Elizabeth asked. "We haven't any out here."

"Neigh! Neigh! Neigh!" Daddy said, galloping around in a circle on his hands and feet.

"The horse is looking for sugar," Robert said. "Look out! Don't let the horse kick you!"

Daddy stopped, twisted his head from side to side and raised his foot high in the air behind him.

"Look out!" Robert said. "The horse is going to kick!"

Daddy held his foot high up behind him a moment and kicked. He kicked so hard it made his shoe come tumbling off.

"The horse kicked his shoe off!" Elizabeth said. "Let's be careful, because the horse is angry with us for not giving him some sugar."

"I'm not afraid of the horse," Robert said. "Watch me! I'm going to ride him!"

"He'll throw you off," Elizabeth said. "You'd better wait until he finds some sugar."

Cheese Straws

Delicious

Easy To Make.

These delicious savouries are easy to make, provided the oven is hot and the pastry is stiff enough to roll out thinly. Rub two ounces of butter into four ounces of flour, add salt, a pinch of cayenne pepper, and half a teaspoonful of mustard, then two ounces of grated cheese.

Mix all well together, and make into a stiff paste with the yolk of an egg, or a small whole beaten egg. When the pastry is smooth, but not sticky, roll it out on a floured board until it is not more than an eighth of an inch thick.

Cut into strips about four inches long and about half an inch wide, put them on a greased tin, and bake in a hot oven for about ten minutes. When cold, pile on a dish or serve in bundles. The pastry can also be made into round biscuits with a cutter, when they serve as the basis for many after-dinner savouries.

ALMOND TOFFEE

An Easy-To-Make Delicacy.

Almond toffee is easy to make at home and forms a change from Everton and treacle toffee. Put two cupfuls of granulated sugar and half a cupful of water into a pan and stir them (over a gentle heat) until the sugar has dissolved.

Then allow the mixture to boil, and when boiling add a quarter of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar mixed with a teaspoonful of water.

Boil the mixture without stirring or about half an hour till it is pale yellow in colour. Then remove it from the heat and stir in two ounces of butter, two ounces of almonds (previously blanched and cut into halves) and a drop of almond essence. Pour the toffee into a well-greased tin and mark it into squares when it is set.

Sluffed Pears In Custard

Tasty With Sponge Fingers.

Prepare a syrup with half a pint of water, an ounce of sugar, and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. When the sugar has melted, and the syrup has reached boiling point, put into it four large pears, peeled but not halved. Let the fruit simmer until tender. Take up, scoop out the cores, and fill with a mixture of chopped almonds and strawberry jam.

Arrange the stuffed pears in a dish. Cut sponge fingers in halves, place these round the fruit, and cover all with custard made with eggs and milk.

Stand aside to get cold and set, then decorate with halved preserved cherries and small strips of angelica.

UNUSUAL PUDDING

Nourishing And Tasty Dish.

A nourishing pudding can be made in the following way. To 1 lb. of sifted flour add a pinch of salt, ¼ lb. of butter, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, two eggs, and enough milk to make a stiff paste.

Knead the dough well, roll out thinly, cut out with a cutter or a glass, and fill each round with a cheese mixture which is prepared from cream cheese, adding to it a tablespoonful of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of ground almonds, and 2 oz. of well-washed sultanas.

Cover with another round of dough and moisten the edges with a little milk. Put in a pudding basin containing a ¼ lb. of melted butter and bake for half an hour in a fairly hot oven. When ready it should be crisp and golden brown in colour. When it is baked, add half a gill of cream and serve hot.

TWO BUDDINGS

STEAMED OR BAKED.

Both these puddings are light and easy to prepare. For fruit sponge, stew a pound of apples to a pulp with sufficient water and sugar and the juice of half a lemon. If preferred, other fresh or bottled fruit may be used, but when cooked it should be a good, thick pulp. Put this at the bottom of a greased pie-dish.

Then cream together the weight of one egg in butter and sugar. Add the beaten egg, then the weight of an egg in sifted self-raising flour. Beat this well until light, and cover the fruit pulp with the mixture. Bake until the sponge is golden and firm; it will take thirty to forty minutes. The oven should be hot for the first fifteen minutes, then moderate.

The following pudding can either be steamed or baked, but if baked the mixture should be made just a little softer than if it is steamed. Put into a bowl a tablespoonful of butter and beat it to a cream; add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and beat again. Then add two tablespoonfuls of self-raising flour and two of ground rice, alternately with a beaten egg and about three tablespoonfuls of milk. When it is light and creamy, thickly cover a greased pie-dish or pudding-basin with golden syrup, pour in the mixture, and bake for thirty to forty minutes, or steam for an hour and a half.

HINTS FOR FISH PREPARATION.

Skin Should Always Be Removed.

When fillets of fish are being prepared for frying in batter or for steaming it, may be desirable to remove the skin. This may easily be done with a sharp knife. The fillet should be laid on a board, skin downwards and held by the tail end. The blade of the knife must then be inserted next to the skin, as near the end as possible.

It should be held almost flat and worked up and down with firm pressure, so that it slides along, separating the fish from the skin without any waste.

Novelty Salads

Hard boil the required number of eggs—allowing half an egg for each person—and cut them in halves lengthways. Scoop out the yolks, pound them well, and beat in some fresh mayonnaise—a teaspoonful for each egg—and the same quantity of melted butter and chopped capers. Season with salt and pepper.

Arrange a few lettuce leaves in individual salad plates, put half an egg white in the centre of each, fill this case with the yolk mixture, sprinkle with chopped parsley, put a few spigs of watercress round.

LIGHT CHOCOLATE CAKE.

Work 30 ozs. butter and 8 ozs. castor sugar to a cream. Then add 3 ozs. flour and the yolks of four eggs one by one, with a tablespoonful of grated chocolate. Whip the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and stir them lightly in. Pour the mixture into a well-buttered mould and bake in a moderate oven. When quite cold pour chocolate icing all over it.

STRAWBERRY CREAM

Half a pound, strawberry jam, quarter-pound castor sugar, four egg-whites, one gill cream.

Pass the jam through a sieve, mix it with the castor sugar and two teaspoonful lemon juice. Whip the egg-whites to a stiff froth and beat this in. Continue to beat the mixture for half an hour, if possible. Divide it into small custard cups, and top each with whipped cream. If the egg and jam mixture is not a good colour, stir in a few drops of cochineal before putting it into the glasses.

Syrup Sponge Pudding

Favourite Dish For Summer.

This is a favourite pudding being light and at the same time fairly substantial. To make it cream four ounces of butter with two ounces of granulated sugar, and beat into it one egg.

Mix together six ounces of sieved flour, two ounces of ground rice, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one teaspoonful of ground ginger, and add it to the butter mixture. Stir in two tablespoonfuls of golden syrup, and then sufficient milk to make a thick batter, and mix well.

Put a small tablespoonful of syrup in the bottom of a greased basin, and pour in the mixture. Cover with a well-greased paper, and steam the pudding for an hour. Serve it with custard sauce.

COFFEE PUDDING.

Coffee pudding is made by soaking half a dozen sponge cakes in a gill of hot black coffee with a walnut of butter, then beating this up with the yolks of two eggs, a tablespoonful of castor sugar, and a little vanilla flavouring. The stiffly whipped whites of the eggs are stirred in lightly at the last, and the mixture is then steamed in small greased moulds about three-parts filled.

SALVATION ARMY ELECTION

Successor Wanted To General Higgins

HIGH COUNCIL TO MEET IN LONDON ON AUGUST 17

The High Council of the Salvation Army has been summoned to assemble in London on August 17, according to information received by the China Mail from Mr. A. J. Benwell, Commissioner for China, who will represent China at the meeting.

The officers who comprise this august assembly are all the Commissioners of the Army who are on active service, at present 40 in number. Officers in command of a territory with the rank of a full Colonel who have held that rank for two years are also eligible.

The duty of the Council will be to elect a successor to General Higgins, who has been the Army head for five years, and who has announced his decision to retire on November 10, due to ill-health. To succeed, the candidate must receive the suffrages of two-thirds of the whole Council.

AMERICAN MOTOR CAVALRY

May Replace Present Horse Brigades.

TESTS MADE IN KANSAS

Two kinds of cavalry go into action here daily, one with horses and the other with horsepower.

One is the old familiar type with gleaming spurs and jaunty chin strap. The other wears a racing motorist's protective headgear and climbs into the armoured turret of a combat car.

Under the eyes of officers at the United States Army Cavalry School the horseless cavalry are being tested to determine whether self-propelled machines will replace the horse, or whether some combination of the two can be effected.

With armoured cars, capable of travelling 60 miles an hour over rough terrain, equipped with .30 and .50 machine guns, the unit is designed to approach its objective quickly and strike a powerful surprise blow.

It is contended by its proponents that this armoured car wing offers a poor target for artillery.

NEW HOPE COMES TO A BARREN LAND

They cannot entirely be blamed for this. One of their fundamental troubles is, and always has been, chronic shortage of capital. Their neighbours in the Transvaal had been assisted by a Land Bank, financed out of the revenue derived from the gold mines. But the Free Staters had known no such advantages.

It is reported that the values of the gold in the Orange Free State are approximately the same as those in the Rand formation. The area of reef is said also to be almost as large. Nothing could be more foolish than to build premature hopes on a gold area. But we know that minerals do turn up in Africa, and even if the present report should turn out to be entirely disappointing it will have done something to stimulate our interest in, and increase our understanding of, those parts of the Union of South Africa which the benefits of gold discovery have passed by.

$5,500,000 LOAN INVESTMENT

For Tsao-ao River Bridge.

The first investment to be handled by the newly inaugurated China Finance Development Corporation is reported as being the construction of the Tsao-ao river railway bridge on the Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railway, the cost of which is estimated at $5,500,000. The investment is understood to be in the form of a loan the security of which will be based on the receipts of the railway.

Gene Tunney, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, and Mrs. Tunney who recently had a visit from the stork, Tunney and his wife the former Polly Lauder are pictured above in a familiar pose.

THE FIRST AUTUMN

"Watch me!" Robert said. "This is the way to catch a wild horse and ride him."

"Neigh! Neigh! Neigh!" Daddy said, galloping off. He stopped and kicked high in the air with his other foot. That shoe did not come off as the other one had.

"Here I go!" Robert said. "Watch me ride the wild horse all around the pasture!"

Daddy stood still until Robert had climbed on his back. Then he shook his head from side to side, snorted, and pawed the lawn.

"Let me ride, too," Elizabeth said. "I want to ride the wild horse."

She climbed on Daddy's back behind Robert and held Robert around the waist so she would not be thrown off when the horse bucked and reared.

"What are you getting down flat on the ground for, Daddy?" Robert said. "We are all on. You can get up now. Make the wild horse snort and buck!"

Daddy lay down flat on the lawn. Elizabeth got off, but Robert took the maple tree twig and tried to make the horse get up.

"The horse won't get up," Robert said. "He wants to lie down."

"Why won't you play horse now?" Elizabeth said. "Don't you want to play any more, Daddy? We haven't had a ride on the wild horse's back yet."

Robert sat down on the lawn in front of Daddy, putting a little. He broke the maple tree twig into dozens of small pieces and threw them away.

"Daddy, won't you play any more?" Elizabeth asked. "If you are tired playing horse, let's play another game. I know a good one called 'Hunting the Kitty.' Don't you want to play that with us?"

Robert got up and walked toward the porch. He stopped and looked back at Daddy and Elizabeth on the lawn.

"I'm going to tell Mother you won't play with us, 'Daddy,' he said. "She'll come out and make you play."

He ran into the house. Elizabeth moved closer to Daddy and began searching for four-leaf clovers in the grass.

The red leaves on the maples in the yard were falling to the lawn. When a gust of wind came, the leaves spun and twisted on the branches, fluttering to the ground like small pieces of torn red paper. Over on the hill the orange and gold trees rustled and bowed in the wind, shaking themselves until the under-side of the leaves turned outward in the sun.

Mother and Robert came out the front door and walked across the lawn. Mother put her finger over her lips so that no one would make any noise. She came closer, tip-toeing softly on the smooth lawn, trying not to make a sound.

Robert held her by the hand, holding his finger over his lips, too. Elizabeth put her hand over her mouth, nodding her head up and down, and opening her eyes wider and wider. In another moment they could all hear Daddy, because he did not know that Mother was there.

When Mother got almost in front of him, she took her finger from her lips and nodded at Robert and Elizabeth. He and Elizabeth were all but bursting with excitement. "Boo!" Mother cried, falling down beside Daddy on the lawn. "Boo!"

"Boo! Daddy!" Robert said. "Boo!" said Elizabeth, jumping up and down.

Mother looked down at Daddy, waiting for him to raise his head and smile at her. She waited a minute and bent closer.

A small black ant was crawling over his nose. On the back of his white shirt a green grasshopper sat with his long legs all ready to spring. "Look at the funny grasshopper," Robert said, touching it with a blade of grass. "He's resting on Daddy's shirt. Look at him jump so high!"

"Shh!" Mother said, putting her finger over her lips again. "Don't make any sounds. Daddy is fast asleep."

"Then how can we play, if Daddy isn't going to be the wild horse?" Elizabeth asked.

"Playing horse isn't much fun," Robert said. "I want to play something else when Daddy wakes up."

Mother sat down closer to Daddy, taking one of his hands in hers. She held it for a moment, and dropped it.

"What's the matter?" Elizabeth asked, clutching Mother's skirt. "Why did you scream, Mother?"

Mother was biting her lips and looking down at Daddy's white shirt where the big grasshopper had been sitting. A maroon maple leaf fluttered down, spinning over and over. It fell on Daddy's shirt and lay there.

"Will Daddy play with us again when he wakes up?" Robert said. "We had almost finished playing horse, and there're some other games we want to play."

"Daddy kicked so hard while we were playing horse that his shoe came off," Elizabeth said. "Look! Here it is!"

She picked it up, and Mother took it from her and held it in both of her hands, pressing it against her breast. Her fingers moved over it as if she were trying to feel what it was without looking at it.

The little black ant on Daddy's nose crawled up to his forehead and stopped there to look at something.

"We must go into the house now," Mother said, taking Elizabeth and Robert by the hands. "I want both of you to go to the playroom and stay there until I call you. Look at the pictures in your books, or build something with your blocks, but do not look out of the window until I call you. Run along now—Robert and Elizabeth. Mother will be busy for a long time."

They went into the house, and Mother waited at the bottom of the stairs while they were going up to the playroom. She leaned against the nearest post, holding close to her breast the shoe that Daddy had kicked off when he was the wild horse.

"It's a shame to stay indoors when it's so nice out there," Robert said. "All the red leaves will soon be gone."

"Will you call us the minute Daddy wakes up, Mother?" Elizabeth asked. "Please do. We want to finish playing horse—and we have some new games to play, too."

"Yes," Mother said. "I'll call you."

HOW COTTON WON GOLF TITLE

There was a touch of Hagen about the way Kirkwood escaped from the rough and secured par figures at several holes, but the thirteenth beat him badly. His third shot was a poor one, and he took three putts.

There was compensation, however, in a four at the fourteenth and a two at the sixteenth with a putt of three yards.

C. Whitcombe's Mistakes

Charles Whitcombe, who played with Cotton, might well have occupied second place but for mistakes at three holes.

Some had wondered if the memories of former victories over Cotton by match play would stimulate him, and at the 4th hole he had gained a stroke, but a six at the 5th was a severe set-back.

Whitcombe smothered his second shot with a brassie, and although playing a skilful shot from the top of a bunker, where he had to stand 18 inches below the ball, he could not reach the green in three, and his chip was too strong to enable him to escape with a five.

He was out in 36, with a putt of four yards for a two at the 8th, but three putts per green at the 10th and 16th, and failure to save a single stroke against par at other holes, made his score 74. At 217, he was three strokes behind Kirkwood.

S. F. Brews, the South African champion, came up the list steadily with a round of 70, due to excellent ball control in the wind and the holing of many putts of three to six feet. He was on the same mark as Whitcombe.

Brilliant Round By McLean

The one brilliant round of the morning was played by an amateur, J. McLean, who astonished himself and everyone else by doing the first nine holes in 31.

This score to the turn was amazing in such a high wind, and it might be the first time in a British championship that a player has had seven threes in nine holes. They were due to a mixture of brilliant iron play and deadly putting. He had a single putt on each of five greens, and his figures were: 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3.

McLean was six under fours at the 12th, and although he found the long holes difficult, and was twice bunkered, his 69 was the best of the morning, and lifted him into the position of leading amateur after three rounds.

Last year's winner, Densmore Shute, was literally blown out of the reckoning at this stage. I had suspected that he lacked the length to do well on this course, and this view was soon confirmed when the wind began to blow.

Cotton's Last Round

A big crowd followed Cotton on his last round—and how different it was from all the others! It was the effort of a man labouring under the terrific strain of trying to win his first world's championship. As the round progressed I felt it was just as well that he had a colossal lead, otherwise there would have been a tragedy.

With twelve holes played he was five over 4's, and there were still many long holes to play where 5's and 6's and even 7's were not only possible, but probable.

Then came a four at the thirteenth and the situation was saved. Things began to happen at the first, where Cotton hit an iron shot slightly off the heel and eventually had to hole a long putt for a five.

He hooked his drive into the rough at the next, and after an army of stewards and spectators had gone in search of the ball and found it he pulled a niblick shot still further into the jungle. But he got his four by holing a putt of five yards. This unquestionably was an escape.

The next adventure was at the fifth, where Cotton elected to take the short cut and was bunkered. The end was a six.

Spectator Rebuked

That something had clearly gone wrong with the working of the human golfing machine was shown at the short sixth, where Cotton missed the simplest of putts, one of not more than a couple of feet.

He was not altogether to blame, for as Cotton was about to putt someone shouted, "You are playing the wrong ball."

"Let me alone, I can look after myself," said Cotton, turning swiftly in the direction of the voice. Whitcombe strolled across to Cotton and patted him on the shoulder, at the same time urging him to be calm. Then Cotton missed the putt.

When Cotton took a six at the next hole the crowd began to whisper ominously. "He is going to crack." The putting machinery had broken down, for he took three putts at the ninth from no great distance.

Cotton took 40 to the turn, and we then knew that he had to come home in 48 in order to win. Could he do it? The question became more acute at the next three holes, each of which produced a five. The score was mounting to perilous heights, and with it Cotton became a little paler and a little more fidgety.

Two "As" Save Situation
A beautiful four at the thirteenth and another at the long fourteenth, though he failed to reach the green with his second shot, arrested the downward movement. Cotton was now in a happier frame of mind.

He almost halved the sixteenth in two, and missed a three at the seventeenth by no more than a hair-breadth. The objective was now Sarazen's record score of 283 for the championship.

Cotton needed a four at the eighteenth to break the record, but, bunkered on the right of the green with his second shot, he could do no better than a five.

Anyhow, he had equalled Sarazen's total. He was carried shoulder high from the green by an excited mob of spectators.

Although it looked as if the other leaders could only be playing for second place, Brews played the last round with such determination that he finished in 71 for an aggregate of 283, and if Cotton had continued on the downward path after the twelfth the South African player would have been even a more serious menace.

As it was Brews made sure of second place, and his 71 was the best round of the afternoon.

As in the morning he showed rare ability to control the ball in the wind with his hooker's grip and stance, and his putting was bold and accurate.

As an instance of his power I will cite the fifth hole. He used his driver twice, and was probably the only man who reached the green in two shots. He secured a great 4.

Brew's One Bad Hole

His one bad hole of the round was the seventh, where, after a good drive and a brassie shot, he pulled his third, and was so far from the pin with his fourth shot that a 6 was inevitable.

He played a glorious second shot with a No. 1 iron to the ninth, and a putt for 3 went in an out of the hole. He was 36 at the turn.

The key to his sound inward half was a classical second shot at the tenth. His drive was too much to the left, and he was faced with a difficult shot over the bunker in the left shoulder of the green.

The pin was not far beyond it, but, showing rare courage and skill, Brews played a high pitch with beautiful judgment, and the ball came to rest three yards from the hole. He rank the putt for a 3.

An inward half of 35 was good going in such a wind, and he finished on a high note with a putt of two yards for a 3.

Padgham's Strong Finish

None of the other leaders could overhaul Brews. Padgham made the best attempt, and though, as he told me, the ball had over kicked so badly for him, his score of 74 placed him third at 290.

His most disappointing hole was the eleventh, where a good second shot ran to the back of the green.

He had to chip down wind, and the ball ran three yards past the hole, and he missed his 4. Again at the fourteenth his second shot went toward the green, and he had to chip back with the 11 and the wind against him.

He took another 5, but finished strongly in 2:5.4, holding putts of about three yards at the sixteenth and seventeenth.

her service bite on yielding turf, and, covering court more rapidly than her opponent, was able to use her volleying skill. Miss Babcock is improving every day she remains in England.

Italian Girls' Handicap

Like de Sturlani, her countryman, Mlle. Valerio does not take kindly to turf courts, and on slow ones she is obviously handicapped. She found Mme. Henrotin placing her fast service at spots that she could not reach.

The French girl produced a shot for a choppy day. Her drop shot, some of them born on the lawn line, often scored outright.

Two German competitors, Mrs. Sperling and Fraulein Horn, had British victims the latter beat ing Miss Noel decisively. Miss Harvey outstayed Mrs. Pittman, and Mlle. Goldschmidt, of France, made an excellent Wimbledon debut by defeating Miss M. A. Thomas with the loss of only four games.

The centre court gallery would have seen more of Miss Paley. They might have done so had Miss Dearman had more confidence.

Many of the girls adopted the sock-over-shoe device; some of the socks were borrowed hurriedly from their male friends. The device did not prevent slipping, was the best substitute for steel points. Of course, if the rain continues the executive may, as at the 1922 meeting, permit the artificial support. They are loth to do so at this early stage.

SWIFT GIVES PIRATES WIN OVER CARDINALS

Brilliant Pitching Leads To 4-0 Success.

GIANTS BEAT PHILLIES

New York, To-day. Bill Swift, star pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, aided his team to victory in the major league American baseball yesterday by shutting out the St. Louis Cardinals for nine innings to give the Pirates the game by 4 to 0.

The New York Giants, world champions, beat the Philadelphia Phillies by a 6 to 3 tally, Vergez hitting a circuit clout for the Giants.

All American League games were washed out by rain, including the double-header fixture between Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Browns.

Results, as cabled by Reuter, were:—

BRITAIN'S DAVIS CUP CHANCE

In the doubles on Monday, however, the Americans, George Lott and Lester Stiefen, the Wimbledon champions, are expected to secure victory.

On Tuesday Perry, if he is not feeling the strain of one singles and one doubles match, should again demonstrate his superiority over America's No. 1 ranking player, Shields, while Austin again has a good chance of victory.

At King's Park.

Tenders are invited by the Director of Public Works for the erection of a Revolver Range for the Police, to be situated at King's Park.

Tenders are also invited for the supply of postal pillar boxes, the work consisting of the provision of seven cast iron boxes.

GIRL ALMOST RUN DOWN BY TRAIN.

Arran, Saskatchewan.

Listening to a train almost cost the life of two-year-old Marlene Fraser.

With her ear to the rails she listened, as she had seen other children do, to the rumble of an approaching Canadian National Railway express.

She omitted, however, to look in the direction that the train was coming.

The engineer stopped the train two feet away.—Reuter.

TRADE ENTHUSIASM DECREASES IN U.S.

Too Many Unfavourable Factors.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegrams, Cable Messages, Ordinance, 1924. Received July 28, 8.12 a.m.)

New York, To-day. Trading enthusiasm here has decreased on the rallying tendencies obscuring the outlook.

Favourable market factors are some improved dividend actions and continued inflation talk.

Unfavourable factors are the immediate steel outlook, the unfavourable continuation of the European difficulties, the drought and the strike.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

LOCAL DOLLAR STEADY.

Silver Prices Decline.

The local dollar remains steady, opening on demand this morning at 1/5½.

Spot and forward silver have declined 3/16, closing prices yesterday being 20 1/16 and 20 3/16, respectively.

The London on New York cross-rate, which closed on Thursday at £-U.S.$5.03½, closed yesterday at £-U.S.$5.03½, while the New York on London rate closed at £-U.S.$5.03½, as compared with £-U.S.$5.03 on Thursday.

BRITAIN ON THE RIGHT PATH

about 88,000, and in the coal trade by about 26,500, as compared with a year ago.

There had been, during the last eighteen months, a remarkable change in the country's unemployment figures, but a further big reduction could not be expected from an expansion of the home market alone, which had already done so well as nearly to reach saturation point.

RELYING ON WORLD TRADE

It was necessary, he continued, to rely on world trade for a further substantial improvement in employment figures. World trade was unfortunately still paralysed in many regions. The best they could say was that the decline was being arrested and that Britain's share in the restricted world trade was definitely on the increase.

Mr. Runciman said that he had signed commercial agreements with 13 countries, and negotiations were proceeding with four others. In every case the agreements showed an increase in British exports to the countries concerned.

He expressed an opinion that world trade was too much at the mercy of sudden political disturbances for him to make any optimistic prophecy, but he thought the essential conditions for a trade revival were, if only a general restoration of confidence abroad could be secured.—British Wireless Ser-

GLORIA SWANSON'S ADVICE

"Don't Make Public Addresses."

"STUDY BUSINESS-GIRLS"

New York.

Two little girls asked Miss Gloria Swanson, screen star, what they should do when they grew up.

"Study business, girls—no matter what you may decide to become—and stand up to the boss," Miss Swanson answered.

The actress added that they should never let anyone persuade them to do anything that they did not think was right.

"And," she continued, "don't forget to draw up a contract."

Some of the other advice which Miss Swanson vouchsafed included:

"Don't let little men stand on your shoulders and tell you that you can't do this or that."

"Don't try to become successful too early."

"My dears, whatever you do, don't let anyone get you to make a public address unless you are a born Will Rogers."

"Don't wear clothes you don't like just to be stylish."

The girls, aged nine and eleven respectively, called at the theatre where Miss Swanson is making her first appearance on the legitimate stage.

The younger one wanted to go on the stage through the tap dancing route. Tap dancing had, however, affected her heart. Did Miss Swanson think that she could be a dancer, even so?

"Dancing isn't the only way you could get into the stage," Miss Swanson said. "You could be an actress."

The elder one wanted to become a newspaper woman.

Miss Swanson declared that she never read anything about herself.

"Why not?" asked the girl.

"Oh, I don't know. May be, I'm bored with myself. Perhaps, its because if it's nice, I am shy about it, and if it isn't, I'm unhappy."—Reuter.
